PINNEY YOUNG'S SAWING MACHINE.

PATENTED JAN. 30TH, 1855. RE-ISSUED, OCT. 2D, 1855.

These celebrated machines are manufactured by THE PINNEY YOUNG SAWING MACHINE COMPANY, on the water power at Milwaukee, Wisconsin. They are of two sizes, one with a 28 inch saw for cutting siding, flooring and fencing, from knots-prepared by an upright saw, as represented above; one size with 36 inch saw, constructed in same manner, and used for same kind of sawing; also for sawing boards from logs, sided up with an upright saw. These machines are capable of sawing two thousand feet of lumber per hour with ease, if properly attended. They cut whilst the log or timber moves in either direction, and thus lose no time in getting back, a mode of sawing, and rapidity of action, never attained by any other machine. This machine is no experiment; large numbers of them are in operation in Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. There is not an owner of one of these machines that would sell it for ten times the cost if he could not supply himself with another. The proprietors challenge the World to produce a machine that can do two-thirds as much work, or do it as well as this machine. The large gold medal of the American Institute was awarded to the Proprietors of this machine at its Fair in the Crystal Palace, in 1856.

MILWAUKEE

BUSINESS DIRECTORY,

FOR THE YEAR

TO BE CONTINUED ANNUALLY.

MILWAUKEE:

DAILY WISCONSIN STEAM PRESS.

PREFACE.

In presenting this, the first number of our little Annual—THE MILWAUKEE BUSINESS DIRECTORY—to the public, the publisher trusts that the work will be found worthy of their generous patronage, and will, he hopes and wishes, richly merit its further issue, from year to year, as it will, with his every endeavor, be found truly interesting and instructive, as a medium for reference.

No pains have been spared to have the book as accurate as it could be made, by care and assiduous labor, and we doubt not that it will compare favorably, as regards neatness and the workmanship displayed in its compilation and "getting up," with any volume of its nature now laid before a generous and discriminating community, in this section of the country; still, it is not surprising, as any and all who are conversant with books of this style and line know, to find, that here and there, an error has, stealthily and unobserved, after untiring care, crept in.

In our next issue, many new features will be added to the work, including an Almanac, which could not be obtained in season to append it to this number. The next number will appear somewhat later in the season—say some time in December.

The succinct sketch of Milwaukee, furnished by a gentleman conversant with the affairs of the city, will be found interesting; and the List of Post Offices, and much of the other matter in the DIRECTORY, will be found truly valuable in the way of reference and for general information.

To our Advertising Patrons, we desire to express our earnest thanks, and and it is hoped that this method of showing up their wares, &c., to the community at large, may prove highly beneficial to their immediate callings.

The whole is submitted to the patronage of the public, without an extended comment.

MILWAUKEE.

It is not quite forty years since SOLOMON JUNEAU immigrated from Canada, and built a log cabin in the forest that then covered the present site of Milwaukee. For seventeen years he was the only white settler—trading with the Indians, and otherwise occupied as a pioneer in a new country.

In 1835, a land office being established at Green Bay, the land in this County came into market, and Mr. JUNEAU bought a tract of 160 acres, on the east side of the river, lying north of Wisconsin street. Just before this time, Col. GEO. H. WALKER came and made a claim upon the tract commonly called Walker's Point. Hon. Byron Kilbourn purchased the tract known as "Kilbourn town."

Daniel Wells, Jr., W. W. Gilman, Geo. D. Dousman, E. W. Edgerton, T. C. Dousman, Geo. O. Tiffany, D. H. Richards, William Brown, Jr., Milo Jones, Enoch Darling, and others immigrated about the same time, and made large purchases of lands. In the course of the summer of 1835, a number of good buildings were erected, and a great many Eastern speculators came and bought lands at high prices. Mr. Juneau, about this time, sold an undivided interest in his lands to Morgan L. Martin. He built a fine dwelling-house on the lot where Mitchell's new Banking-house now stands; also a large store and warehouse on what is now known as "Ladington's Corner." In 1835, he was doing a large business both in selling goods and lots. During that season, some two or three hundred thousand dollars worth of goods had been brought here to sell. Ground rent was nearly as high as it is now. A merchant with a stock of goods would arrive one day, and by the next day noon he would have a store completed to open in. Things were done on the California principle. They were usually built of rough boards with a "grass floor," and in several instances a blanket was hung up for a partition, and one-half of the tenement rented to another for a dollar a day. The town was flooded with speculators, and all made money until the non-residents left and navigation closed, when a sudden change "came o'er the spirit of their dreams."

The town was left with a large stock of goods, and but few inhabitants. Merchants and other business men enjoyed the winter in the best possible manner. During the fall quite a large number of actual settlers had arrived, of the right stamp, among whom was H. N. Wells, J. E. Arnold, Henry Williams, Hans Crocker, J. H. Tweedy, L. Blossom, J. W. Pixloy, S. H. Martin, Geo. P. Delaplaine, Geo. Reed, Cyrus Hawley, Fred. Wardner, A. O. T. Breed, Eliphalet Cramer, Rufus Parks, Curtis

Reed, Orson Reed, William M. Dennis, Truman L. Smith, Edmond D. Clinton, A. A. Bird, and many others, whom time will not allow us to mention.

The log hut of Mr. Juveau was built on the ground between Van Cott's and the Ladington corner. Talbot C. Dousman built a frame building that year, (1835) which we believe is the same as now stands in the rear of Hewitt & Sons hardware store. We think it the only one of the pioneer buildings now left.

The spring of 1837 disappointed all anticipations. A general stagnation in business prevailed in all directions. Immigration had almost entirely fallen off. The currency, which was mostly of the Michigan "Wild Cat" stamp, was no longer a legal tender. There was no sale for real estate. The second payments were becoming due on purchases of real estate, and all who supposed themselves rich in lands, were not only destitute of money, but the means to raise it. Some who were able to hold on, kept their property until they could get a handsome advance; while the majority were compelled to sell for what they could get, and bankruptcy was the inevitable result.

At this time, there were but a few settlements in the interior; but the hard times which continued through the years of 1837 and 1838, induced many to leave Milwaukee and locate a "claim." The lands between Milwaukee and Rock River were then surveyed, but were not brought into market until the fall of 1839. During this time they had become thickly settled, and many of them quite valuable. The hard times at the East had led many to seek a home in the West; and in the fall of 1839, when these lands came into market, many of them had been so improved that they were worth from $10 to $100 an acre, while the occupants had not the first "red cent" to buy them with. Consequently, a large proportion of the settlers were compelled to either sell their improvements for what they could get, or pay from 25 to 50 per cent. for money to enter their lands with.

About this time, Alexander Mitchell, Harvey Birchard, the Messrs. Ludingtons, E. Eldred, and other capitalists came to Milwaukee, and purchased lots at $100 each, that had previously been sold from $1,000 to $1,500, and are now selling from $5,000 to $15,000 each. From that day to this, "the rise and progress" of Milwaukee has been steady and onward.

Milwaukee, in 1850, contained 20,000 inhabitants; in 1855, it contained 31,000; and on the 1st of July, 1857, a careful estimate, made up from the number of dwellings erected, gave us a population of 50,000.

The Harbor of this port is semi-circular, six miles from point to point, with a depth of about 2 1-2 miles. In addition to the natural harbor formed by the mouth of the river, the city has constructed a "Straight Cut," from the river across the neck of land between it and the Lake shore, 260 feet in width, thus affording an artificial entrance to the river, which is protected by substantial piers, and which cost something over $100,000.—During the whole of last winter, this new harbor or "Straight Cut," was not at all obstructed with ice, and there was not a day during the most severe of the cold weather, when a steamer could not have entered and departed with safety. When it is considered that Atlantic harbors, as far south as Norfolk, Va., will partially close up with ice at times during the winter, it would seem unnecessary to enlarge further upon the superiority of our harbor facilities, and its capacity for affording accommodation to the Grand Haven steamers, at all seasons of the year.

The States and Territories, now populated, and lying west of Lake Michigan, and dependent upon it for their natural and most direct water communication with the East, contain over 200,000 square miles of agricultural territory, and possess a population of not less than one million six hundred thousand inhabitants. All this territory and these people, are better accommodated at Milwaukee than any other port on Lake Michigan, as a glance at the numerous railways centering here, and radiating in the different directions alluded to, will verify.

The aggregate number of arrivals and departures at this port, for the year 1856, was 5,000, with an aggregate tonnage of over 2,000,000, and with seamen to the number of 84,549. The tonnage of this ontry district now amounts to nearly 30,000, and includes all kinds of Lake craft. The total value of merchandize imported during the year 1856, was $28,000,000; and the value of the exports was over $20,000,000. The dutiable goods entered at this port, will amount for the present year, to over $1,800,000, and the duties collected will nearly reach $500,000.

The amount of wheat exported from September 1st, 1856, to to September 1st, 1857, ult., redneing flour to bushels, was 4,881,000 bushels; and with the present prospects, we have no hesitancy in placing the estimate for the year to come, or the crop of 1857, at upwards of 6,000,000 bushels.

As an evidence of the growth of Milwaukee, we would say, that by actual returns, as prepared by the Secretary of the Board of Trade, for 1856, there was expended in building, $2,150,000, using 30,000,000 of home-made brick. And by the enterpriso of a gentleman of this city, it has been ascertained that there are now constructing nearly 2,000 buildings within our corporate limits. Some of these are massive and valuable business and public buildings. These improvements will consume over 50,000,000 brick and 75,000 bbls. of lime, all manufactured in this city and its suburbs.

THE NEWHALL HOUSE.—This superb structure, erected by DANIEL NEWHALL, and leased by Messrs. KEAN & RICE, was opened to the public on the 26th of August, ult., by a Grand Festival, at which 2,500 persons were present.

It is situated at the corner of Main and Michigan Streets, fronting on the former 180 feet, and on the latter 120 feet. The material employed in the erection of this fine edifice, is the best Milwaukee Pressed Brick; at a distance of 40 feet from each end, the wall is recessed. The window-caps are of iron, variously ornamented, but harmonizing in the general effect. The whole wall is crowned by massive cornices, and surmounted with an elevated cupola, from which the whole city and the Bay may be seen. The foundation walls were laid strong and deep, 4 feet thick, with stone from a quarry near the city. The inner rooms are well lighted and ventilated by an open court, twenty-eight by eighty feet.

Commencing at the basement, we find the sidewalk arched on both fronts for coal collars, and in the basement itself on Michigan street, there are five well lighted store-rooms, cellars for wines, vegetables, &c., a room containing a steam engine for labor-saving purposes, washing and ironing rooms, larder, scullery, &c., with an arched passageway, leading from the alley into the open court.

1st Floor.—In the centre, on Main street, under an arcade projecting eight feet, is the main entrance. On each side of the broad stairway, halls of tessellated marble lead to the rear, in which is a barber's shop, floored in like manner, and lighted from the court. On Main street, there are six stores and a private entrances, leading to the hall above, and the other to the bar-room, with a billiard-room attached. Along the north end will be the pastry cook's room market and baking-rooms, and fifteen rooms for servants.

2d Floor.—This is the main floor of the Hotel. At the top of the stairway on this floor, is the office, on each side of which is the main hall, floored with marble, 138 by 22 feet, with a circular stairway at each end, leading to the sixth story. To the right is the gentleman's reception-room, ladies' reception-room and ladies' parlor, in the rear of which are dressing-rooms, baths, &c., &c. The dining-rooms, of which there are two, can readily be converted into one, of 118 by 40 feet, are in the rear, on this floor.

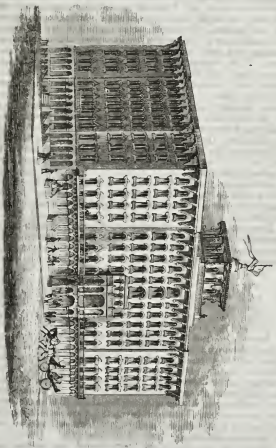

3d Story.—This story, besides bath-rooms, &c., has seven suits of rooms, and the remainder divided into single rooms.

The fourth and fifth stories have the same arrangements, while the sixth is all single rooms. There are, in the whole, twenty-five suits of rooms, besides the parlors, and two hundred and seventy-six rooms for guests.

The Architects of this Great Northwestern Palace were Messrs. Boyington & Mix, who have exhibited great skill in their profession. Mr. Mix superintended the building. Messrs. Martin & Rngee, of this city, were the contractors.

The cost of the Newhall House was $160,000.

The furnishing, by the enterprising lessees cost $80,000.

NEWHALL HOUSE.

The U. S. Government have nearly completed a fine building on the corner of Milwaukee and Wisconsin Streets, to be used for government purposes. Its dimensions are as follows: Front on Wisconsin street, 110 feet: front on Milwaukee street, 60 feet; three stories high, with a basement, giving an elevation of about 60 feet front on Wisconsin street. The general arrangement of the building is as follows, viz: basement, P. O. packing room, storage, fuel and furnace, water-closets and wash-room. Main floor—P. O., vestibule for general delivery, Deputy Postmaster's room, &c. 2d Floor—Custom House, general-business room, steam boat inspector's office, collectors's office, district attorney (U. S.) office, Post Master's room, P. O. clerk's room and hall. 3d Floor—U. S. Court room, library and Grand Jury room, U. S. Marshal's room, Clerk's office, Judge's room, &c. The building is fire-proof, and built of stone from the Athens' Quarry, Illinois. It is now nearly completed, and will cost about $125,000. The contractor is Col. C. A. Jones, late of Rochester, N. Y. The whole work is placed by the Secretary of the Treasury, under the superintendence of H. W. Gunnison, Esq.

During the present year, there has been added 20 per cent. to the wholesale mercantile facilities of the city. In 1856, the amount of sales, by exclusively wholesale jobbing houses, was $16,942,000.

The manufacturing interests of Milwaukee have kept even pace with her commercial and mercantile interests. By actual statistics presented to the Board of Trade, the total aggregate amount of manufactured articles was as follows:

YEARS.	VALUE.
1854, - - - - -	$4,633,000
1855, - - - - -	5,590,000
1856, - - - - -	8,357,000
1857, - - - - -	10,500,000

Among the most important of our manufactures may be mentioned steam engines, boilers, machinery, and other iron work. Also, ale and beer, brick, &c., &c. Beef and pork packing, and flour milling, is carried on to a considerable extent. No more important increase has been made than in manufactures. The manufacturers of iron materials turn out over a million and a half dollars of articles, and employ about 1,000 mechanics. In the manufacture of ale and beer, there are some thirty brewers, with some $1,280,000 invested, and turning out over 120,000 bbls. of beer per annum.

No city in the Union can compare with this in the beauty of its brick, and none can compete with us in the manufacture. So enormous has been the home demand, for the past two years, that even with doubled facilities our brick-makers have been unable to supply much beyond their home demand. We estimated the entire manufacture of brick for this year, at about 60,000,000. This home demand has kept prices high, and although the export orders have been greater than could be answered, still they will become unlimited when prices shall fall to a point near the prices of other brick on the line of the Lakes.

The pork packed in this city is worth from $1 to $2 per bbl. more than that put up at Chicago, at least the difference is so great that our packers bought some 20,000 hogs in that city, last year, brought to this market for packing—the difference in price more than compensating for the railroad freight.

The extra "Empire Mills" flour sells in New York at the same as the famous Genesee.

The system of Free Schools was early established in Wisconsin, by the appropriation of the sixteenth section of every township in the State for the support and maintenance of Common Schools. From the proceeds of the sectional and overflowed lands donated to the State, it is estimated that the School Fund will amount to $5,000,000. The avails of this permanent fund are set apart for the purposes of education.

There are in the city of Milwaukee eight public schools. The buildings have all been either rebuilt or repaired the past year, and put in as good condition as any buildings of the kind in the country. The outlay has been about $60,000, so that the value of the school property must now amount to at least $150,000. Each school has a primary, intermediate and grammar department, and each department two to three teachers. The amount expended for educational purposes the past year, (aside from school-house repairs,) was about $15,000. Of this sum nearly $8,000 accrues from the State Fund.

Besides the public schools, the city has a University, incorporated with full University powers, and in successful operation. It is not inferior to any institution of the kind in the West. Also, a Female College, in successful operation for six years. An endowment of $20,000 has recently been made to it. It is conducted by a board of trustees and a faculty of teachers.

In addition to these, there are several private schools of character and reputation, and two fully organized Commercial Colleges, all of which are well patronized and sustained.

We feel confident in saying that no city in the Union has better or more extensive educational advantages than Milwaukee. Our teachers' salaries are ample, and command the best talent the country affords.

Built upon the high bluffs of Lake Michigan, and the picturesque slopes of the Milwaukee River, Milwaukee is unrivalled in beauty of locality by any city in the North-West. By a strange dereliction somewhere, we have no means of giving the mortality of the city for the past years, still there remains no doubt in the minds of our best and most scientific physicians, that the per cent. is less than any town of its size west of Buffalo. We estimate the mortality for the past year at two per cent. upon the population, being less than the average of Boston or Buffalo for the past five years.

An important feature in our healthfulness consists in the fact, that as the city extends and enlarges, disease and mortality decrease in ratio to the population. And during the fearful prevalence of cholera at St. Louis and Chicago, in 1854, Milwaukee had but a few isolated cases; and that malady has seldom existed here as an epidemic since the settlement of the city.

There is no city in the United States that comparatively sustains so large a number of respectable newspapers as Milwaukee. There are eight daily papers printed in the city—five English three German—all enjoying a patronage which speaks well for the enterprise and intelligence of all classes of our population.

The Railway system of Milwaukee, as now completed and in progress, is perhaps inferior to no city in the country. We have no space to enter at length upon the condition and prospects of these Roads; all and each of them are of sufficient importance to enlist the co-operation of many leading men in their construction. An outline of these Roads, and a brief allusion to their business, is all that can be expected at our hands.

The Lake Shore Road, to Chicago, a distance of 85 miles, has been in operation two years, and is earning a handsome dividend, above all interest and sinking fund accounts. The number of passengers transported in 1856, was 180,000 and the number in 1857, cannot fall below 230,000 to 250,000. This number does not include the passengers taken by the Company's steamers to and from Chicago.

The Fox River Valley Railroad runs south, through thriving towns to the State Line, where it connects with the Kenosha & Rockford Road, now nearly completed. This Road has 12 miles of its southern end constructed, and has contracted the whole line to Milwaukee on the most favorable terms, to be completed on the 1st of October, 1858. The prospects of this Road are peculiarly flattering.

The Milwaukee & Beloit Railroad connects with the Racine & Mississippi Railroad, at Delavan, 49 miles from the City of Milwaukee, from whence to Savannah, on the Mississippi River, is 89 miles, making the entire line from Milwaukee to Savannah, 138 miles. This is the shortest line of railway that has been undertaken between Lake Michigan and the Mississippi River.—The Road is graded from Milwaukee to East Troy, 32 miles, and a large force is engaged on the work between East Troy and Delavan; and the Company expect to lay the iron as far as East Troy, by the 1st of January, and through to Delavan by the 1st of June next, by which time it is believed the Racine & Mississippi Road will be finished through to Savannah. This Road passes through several of the richest and most populous counties of Southern Wisconsin and Northern Illinois, and will supply them with merchandize and manufactured articles, from the Eastern markets, and at the same time it will open to them the shortest and cheapest route to the best harbor of Lake Michigan, for all agricultural products. Sabula, opposite Savannah, is the Eastern terminus of the Great Iowa Central Railroad, extending across the entire State to the Missouri River, a distance of 350 miles. This latter road has the advantage of a munificent Land Grant, and is all under contract.

The Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad, running nearly west through Madison, the Capital of the State, to Prairie du Chien, on the Mississippi River, is now completed and in successful operation, a distance of about 200 miles. At the Mississippi River it employs a line of steamboats for all points on the Upper River. This Road now runs three passenger trains each way, daily, and connects with the Chicago, St. Paul & Fond du Lac Road at Janesville. The latter Road is doing a handsome business from the traffic alone, taken from it and given to it by the Milwaukee & Mississippi Road. At least one-half is through Eastern business, and with the completion of the Detroit & Milwaukee Railway, this would seek its destination via Milwaukee, instead of the more circuitous route around the head of the Lake. From Milton through Janesville, the Southern Wisconsin Division of the Milwaukee & Mississippi Railroad branches, and is now open 22 miles, and is to be running to Monroe, 16 miles, this autumn. A few miles west of Monroe, a short branch connects this Road with the Galena Road, so that through these different connections, the Milwaukee & Mississippi Road will touch the Mississippi River at two points, before the close of 1857. The enterprising cities of Galena and Dubuque will find their nearest route to New York and Boston, via the Milwaukee & Mississippi and the Detroit & Milwaukee Railways. The earnings of this Road, for 1856, though not open to its terminus, were 22 per cent. above all accounts, and the Directors divided 17 per cent. during the year, from actual earnings. Its total earnings for the present year will reach $1,200,000, or about $8,000 per mile upon the Road operated for the year.

The Milwaukee & Watertown Railroad, formerly a distinct corporation, is now consolidated with the La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad. It is now completed and in operation to Columbus, a distance of 62 miles from Milwaukee, and is to be extended to Portage, on the Wisconsin River, some 24 miles farther. This Road passes through the flourishing city of Watertown, situated on the Rock River, one of the most important milling and manufacturing points in the State. From Watertown, a road is now under contract and mostly graded to Madison, the Capital, to be completed during the present year.

The La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad, and the Land Grant Road, is one of the most important roads, considering its length, direction and different connections, leading into our city. The general course is north-westerly, and it reaches the Mississippi at La Crosse, about 200 miles from Milwaukee. The road is now completed and in operation to Kilbourn City, on the Wisconsin, 122 miles. The Western Division has been put under contract, the grading is to be completed this year, and the Road is to be opened through by the 1st of November, 1858. The Legislature has given this Company the land donated to the State, for the construction of a Road from Portage to St. Croix, and thence to Superior, 350 miles. This Land Grant is valued at $12,000,000.—The earnings of the Road, though doing exclusively a way business, will amount to over $600,000 this year.

The Milwaukee & Horicon Railroad is a most promising enterprise. For the first 51 miles, to Horicon, Dodge county, it follows and occupies in common, the track of the La Crosse & Milwaukee Railroad. At Horicon it leaves that road, and takes an independent route, pointing more towards the north, and passing through Waupuna, Ripon, Berlin, (on Fox River,) Steven's Point, (on the Wisconsin,) to Superior City, on Lake Superior, 325 miles from Milwaukee. It is now completed and open to Berlin, on the Fox River, a distance of 92 miles, where it connects with a line of steamers, running upon the Fox and Wolf Rivers and Lake Winnebago.

The Milwaukee & Fond du Lac Air Line, and the Milwaukee & Superior Roads, are owned by the same Company. They both branch from the La Crosse Road, a few miles from this city—one to Fond du Lac, and the other to run along the Lake Shore.—The latter has 18 miles of its line nearly ready for the cars. Both are contracted for, and will be completed in a reasonable time—the first to Fond du Lac, and the second to Green Bay, via. Sheboygan and Manitowoc.

To complete this brief sketch of our railroads, we give a table, showing the entire lines radiating from this city, and also the distances now built:

NAME.	NOW BUILT.	ENTIRE LINE.
Lake Shore, - - - -	85	85
Fox River Valley, - - -	12	42
Milwaukee & Beloit, - -	32	138
Milwaukee & Mississippi, (main line,) -	200	200
" " " (branches,) -	44	97
La Crosse & Milwaukee, - -	122	521
Milwaukee & Watertown, - -	80	110
Milwaukee & Fond du Lac, - -	—	70
Milwaukee & Superior, - -	18	300
Milwaukee & Horicon, - -	92	325
Total, - - - -	685	1888

It is safe to assert, that on the close of the year 1858, there will be 1,000 miles of these lines of road in operation, and they will bring to Milwaukee from 1,000 to 1,200 passengers daily. With this number of arrivals in the city, the estimate of 200 per day, that would take the Transit route to the East, seems safe and reasonable.

To those who have not investigated the subject a few facts in regard to the vast business of the Valley of the Upper Mississippi and the country to the west of it, will be interesting and instructive. There are now engaged in the trade of the Upper Mississippi River, nearly 100 steamboats. The aggregate arrivals at St. Paul, for the present year, will be over 1,000. The freight delivered at the different landings above Dubuque, for 1856, amounted to over 150,000 tons, and the passengers that have been conveyed both ways, can not fall short of 200,000 the present season. Until the past two months this enormous freight and travel has gone over the Galena & Chicago Railroad, as the most northern crossing from Lake Michigan to the Mississippi, and has helped to swell the traffic of that Road, to the wonderful figures which it reached in 1855 and 1856.

An important feature in the whole system of Milwaukee Railroads, is the fact that from all points on the Mississippi River, where our roads touch, there are corresponding lines building, continuing westward towards the Missouri River and the Rocky Mountains. Five years ago the States of Illinois and Wisconsin were as destitute of railways as Iowa and Minnesota are now; and yet Iowa and Minnesota are now improving as fast as ever did Wisconsin or Illinois. We have no doubt that ten years from this there will be over a million and a half of people in Minnesota, every inhabitant of whom will reach the East cheaper and easier, via, Milwaukee.

At no time in the short history of the city have the visible signs of prosperity been so great as at the present moment. On every hand are evidences of the most substantial prosperity.—While other cities are standing still or going backward under the terrible financial pressure of the present autumn, our own city is prosperous and unimpeded. None of our merchants have suspended, and all classes are sound and stable. There is nothing "flash" or "fancy" in the growth of the city. Milwaukee confessedly stands forth the Commercial Emporium of Wisconsin and of the Northwest.

The position of Wisconsin, is certainly second to that of no State in the American Union—of ample size, and embracing every variety of surface; her boundaries seem prescribed by nature, and are suited to insure the most perfect development of her natural advantages. On the east, the waters of Lake Michigan bound her shores for a distance of nearly two hundred miles, affording noble harbors, from which a commerce, sustained from her vast internal resources, must at no distant day be carried on. Lake Superior washes her northern shores for one hundred and fifty miles; and there, enterprise has begun to lay out cities, and has already discovered rich mines of mineral products, which, in quantity and quality, are unequalled in the world. This Inland Sea affords a commercial high road to the Atlantic, which may yield competition, to the now rapidly growing facilities of railroad transportation.

The Father of Waters rolls up his western limits, giving a steamboat navigation for a distance of three hundred and fifty miles within her borders. Has any other State, or any other country, a more advantageous position? To this belongs an interior of diversified character, irrigated by numerous streams, which discharge their waters on either side into the Mississippi or Lake Michigan, and studded with lakes which add beauty, while they diffuse fertility around.

With such a region to depend upon for its support, no hopes can be too extravagant for her future, and no prophecies too wild for fulfilment. She stands here, the pride of her citizens, the admiration of strangers, the Fair White City—THE QUEEN OF THE LAKES.
